

Water and Environmental pollution 2017-18

During the NSS special winter camp on 09/12/2017 Smt.Prof.B.P.Bhangale delivered lecture on Water and Environment Pollution for this lecture 140 students and 4 teachers participated in her lecture Smt.Prof.B.P.Bhangale told that, Water pollution can have disastrous consequences for human life. This is especially true for those living in disadvantaged and undeveloped environments, where the struggle to access clean, healthy water is a daily ordeal. There are a number of methods of disinfecting water so that it is drinkable, including a whole host of chemical-based disinfection techniques. While these can yield positive results, it's only half the battle.

It's also essential to ensure that those of us in a more privileged position do not waste water in our daily lives. This comes to down to things as simple as turning off the taps when brushing teeth, sharing bathwater (or better yet, taking short showers) and recycling water in any way we can.

As well as these simple but effective measures, there is also a significant amount of research being conducted into innovative ways of saving water through the wonders of modern technology. Hopefully, as our knowledge increases and our technological prowess unfolds, the problems of drought and dirty drinking water will become a thing of the past within our own lifetimes. On this occasion Principal Dr.S.V.Patil, Vice-Principal R.H. Thakare and NSS programme Officer Dr.D.S.Borade, Prof. P.V.Ransure, Smt.Dr.K.M.Ahire, Prof.V.K.Chavan along with the non-teaching staff like Shri. Arun Pawar, Shri.Bhaskar Halde was present.
